Francis the Talking Mule. Based on a book by David Stern. (1949). Comedy. B&W. 91 mins. CC Video Released May 1994. Donald O'Connor, Patricia Medina, ZaSu Pitts, Raymond F. Collins, John McIntire, Anthony Curtis. Directed by Arthur Lubin. Voice by Chill Wills. A wounded Army 2nd Lieutenant Peter Sterling (Donald O'Connor) manages to reach his base from behind enemy lines. Peter is a hero. But, our hero is soon in the psycho ward weaving baskets after he explains to his superior officer (Ray Collins) that a talking mule named Francis really rescued him. Each time Francis shows up with plans for another heroic action, Peter ends up with more time in the bobby hatch & a bigger basket to weave. Peter's problem is that the gabby mule stubbornly refuses to utter a word around anyone else but him. To add to the fun there's a beautiful & mysterious woman (Patricia Medina) who finds Peter irresistible, a five-star general (John McIntire) who wants Peter to give him some straight answers & a loony nurse (Zasu Pitts) who wants Peter to become a permanent resident in her psycho ward Chill Wills provides both hilarity & wisdom as the voice of Francis & Tony Curtis is briefly seen in one of his very first films. Friday Night Lights. (2004). Color. 118 mins. CC PG13. Video Released 2004. Directed by Peter Berg. Featuring Billy Bob Thornton, Derek Luke, Ty Law, Tim McGraw, Jay Hernandez. H.G. Bissinger's best-selling true-life account of a few months in the life of a high-school football team comes to the screen in this adaptation written and directed by Peter Berg. Odessa, TX, is an oil town in the western part of the state that's home to the Permian High School Panthers, the football team with the best winning record in the state. Odessa is a town with more than its share of problems; the decline of the oil business in Texas has set the city's economy into a tailspin, and racial tensions still erupt into violence on occasion. But football is the one thing that brings all the people of Odessa together, and on Friday nights every fall, as many as 20,000 people fill Permian's football stadium to watch Coach Gary Gaines (Billy Bob Thornton) and his boys try to lead the team to victory. As Gaines works to build a winning team in a town where victory is prized above all else, however, his players struggle through the emotional trials common to any teenager and ponder the fact that there is little future in their hometown.and that a championship season can be as much a burden as a triumph. Universal Studios Home Video, Inc. VHS. $23.98.

Gangs of New York. (2002). Color. 167 mins. CC R. Video Released 2002. Directed by Martin Scorsese. Featuring Leonardo DiCaprio, Daniel Day-Lewis, Liam Neeson, Jim Broadbent, Cameron Diaz. The violent rise of gangland power in New York City at a time of massive political corruption and the city's evolution into a cultural melting pot set the stage for this lavish historical epic, which director Martin Scorsese finally brought to the screen almost 30 years after he first began to plan the project. In 1846, as waves of Irish immigrants poured into the New York neighborhood of Five Points, a number of citizens of British and Dutch heritage who were born in the United States began making an open display of their resentment toward the new arrivals. William Cutting (Daniel Day-Lewis), better known as "Bill the Butcher" for his deadly skill with a knife, bands his fellow "Native Americans" into a gang to take on the Irish immigrants; the immigrants in turn form a gang of their own, "The Dead Rabbits," organized by Priest Vallon (Liam Neeson). After an especially bloody clash between the Natives and the Rabbits leaves Vallon dead, his son goes missing; the boy ends up in a brutal reform school before returning to the Five Points in 1862 as Amsterdam (Leonardo DiCaprio). Now a strapping adult who has learned how to fight, Amsterdam has come to seek vengeance against Bill the Butcher, whose underworld control of the Five Points through violence and intimidation dovetails with the open corruption of New York politician "Boss" Tweed (Jim Broadbent). Amsterdam gradually penetrates Bill the Butcher's inner circle, and he soon becomes his trusted assistant. Amsterdam also finds himself falling for Jenny Everdeane (Cameron Diaz), a beautiful but street-smart thief who was once involved with Bill. Amsterdam is learning a great deal from Bill, but before he can turn the tables on the man who killed his father. Amsterdam's true identity is exposed, even though he has conceiled it from nearly everyone, including Jenny. Garfield: The Movie. (2004). Color. 80 mins. CC PG. (Dubbed: Spanish, French). Theatrical Release. Video Released 2004. Directed by Peter Hewitt. Featuring Bill Murray, Jennifer Love Hewitt, Nick Cannon, Debra Messing, Breckin Meyer. Jon Arbuckle (Breckin Meyer) is a sweet, if somewhat clueless, man who shares his home with his pet cat, Garfield (voice of Bill Murray). Garfield is not your ordinary tabby — he's fat, he's smart-mouthed, he's arrogant, he won't do anything he doesn't have to, and would rather stuff himself with lasagna than do something Jon asks of him. Despite this, Jon loves his cat, but when he decides to expand his animal family, Garfield is less than enthusiastic about the presence of Odie, a lovably enthusiastic dog whose only flaw is his extreme stupidity. While Jon is crazy for Odie, and especially likes having two pets that necessitate periodic visits to Dr. Liz Wilson (Jennifer Love Hewitt), a veterinarian he has a crush on, Garfield decides to remove Odie from the picture. Garfield arranges for Odie to become the property of Happy Chapman (Stephen Tobolowsky), a television host who acts like an animal lover on the round-cornered screen but doesn't much like pets on his own time. While Garfield at first enjoys ruling the roost again, he soon realizes the error of his ways, and in a rare example of selfless and ambitious behavior, hatches a plan to rescue Odie from Chapman. Twentieth Century Fox Entertainment. DVD. $29.98; VHS. $19.98; VHS. $19.98.

Gigli. (2003). Color. 124 mins. CC R. Video Released 2003. Directed by Martin Brest. Featuring Ben Affleck, Jennifer Lopez, Al Pacino, Christopher Walken, Justin Bartha. Larry Gigli (Ben Affleck) is a low-level Los Angeles mob enforcer. His volatile boss, Louis (Lenny Venito), hires Gigli to kidnap Brian (newcomer Justin Bartha), the mentally handicapped younger brother of a federal prosecutor who's about to bring Louis' boss to trial in New York. Gigli gets the kid home without a hitch. Then a beautiful woman (Jennifer Lopez) shows up at his door. She says her name is Ricki, and Gigli soon learns that the nervous Louis has hired her to keep an eye on him. "In every relationship," Gigli soon finds himself expounding to his unwanted partner, "there's a bull and a cow." His efforts to maintain control of the situation are further hampered by the brief appearance of the insane Detective Stanley Jacobellis (Christopher Walken) and a forced visit to his overbearing mother's (Lainie Kazan) house. To make matters worse, when Gigli expresses his attraction to Ricki, he learns that she's a lesbian. She, meanwhile, proves herself considerably more capable than the lunkheaded Gigli, winning their war of words and even scaring off a rowdy group of high school kids. As Gigli and Ricky continue to look after the young, innocent Brian, they find themselves increasingly attracted to one another. But their potential budding romance is put on hold when Starkman (Al Pacino) arrives from New York, angry about how his affairs are being handled. Sony Pictures Home Entertainment. DVD. $26.96; VHS.

Girl from Flanders. (1956). Drama. Foreign Films—Germany. B&W. 91 mins. (German, Dubbed: English). Video Released 1995. Maximilian Schell, Nicole Berger, Gert Frobe. Directed by Helmut Kautner. The setting of this provocative, vividly dramatic anti-war drama is World War I, & Maximilian Schell stars as Alexander Haller, a soulful, idealistic German lieutenant & former medical student. Haller, the son of a pompous major-general, has been wizened by the time he has spent at the front line. While in a small Belgian village located near the front he falls in love with a pretty, chaste barmaid named Angeline. Their relationship leads to a variety of complications. Ultimately, the film is an incompromising examination of the futility & insanity of war, & how it destroys the lives of all - & especially the innocent - who are touched by it. Video Yesteryear. VHS. (Order #: 1930) $24.95.

Featuring Elisha Cuthbert, Sung Hi Lee, Timothy Olyphant, Emile Hirsch. Boy meets girl who's already met all sorts of boys and girls in this teen-slanted comedy. Matthew Kidman (Emile Hirsch) is a straight-laced and highly ambitious high school student who plans to study at Georgetown University and dreams of a career in politics. While most of his classmates are in the throes of an epidemic of senioritis, Matthew is obsessed with schoolwork and has a hard time relaxing and having fun. But he finds himself a bit less focused on his future career when Danielle (Elisha Cuthbert), a beautiful 19-year-old blonde, moves in next door. Danielle is playful, spontaneous, and doesn't always remember to draw her shades, and before long Matthew is head over heels in love. Danielle soon finds herself taken with Matthew as well, but their relationship takes an unusual turn when he discovers that, before she moved to town, Danielle had a successful career as a porn actress. Matthew is able to convince Danielle that she's cut out for better things in life than appearing in porn videos, but his advice doesn't especially please Kelly (Timothy Olyphant) or Hugo (James Remar), two porn moguls who figure Matthew owes them big-time after convincing their leading lady to drop out of the adult industry. Girl With a Pearl Earring. (2003). Color. 99 mins. CC PG13. (Subtitled: Spanish). Video Released 2003. Directed by Peter Webber. Featuring Colin Firth, Cillian Murphy, Tom Wilkinson, Scarlett Johansson. Girl With a Pearl Earring is told from the point of view of Griet (Scarlett Johansson), a teenaged girl who leaves her family's care in the country to become a servant for the Vermeer household in the comparatively bustling, canal-laden burgh of Delft. When she arrives, she finds herself at the low end of the servant totem pole, until she's allowed to clean "the master's" painting quarters. There, she quite literally catches the eye of the taciturn, reclusive Vermeer (Colin Firth), and over a period of time, he begins to craft her portrait. Of course, this does little to further his relationship with his jealous, pregnant wife, Catharina (Essie Davis), or with his most vocal benefactor, van Ruijven (Tom Wilkinson), who often dictates what portraits Vermeer should paint. Meanwhile, Griet navigates a sweet, tentative relationship with a peasant boy her age (Cillian Murphy). Lion's Gate Publishing. DVD. $26.98; VHS.; VHS.

Godsend. (2004). Color. 102 mins. CC PG13. Video Released 2004. Directed by Nick Hamm. Featuring Greg Kinnear, Robert De Niro, Rebecca Romijn. Paul (Greg Kinnear) and Jessie Duncan (Rebecca Romijn-Stamos) have barely begun the grieving process when Dr. Richard Wells (Robert De Niro) attends the funeral of the Duncans' eight-year-old son, Adam (Cameron Bright), with a pressing question in tow. Head of the Godsend Fertility Clinic, Dr. Wells claims he can use Adam's rapidly dying cells to clone a replica of the boy, though the necessary DNA will only be viable for another 24 hours. The process in itself is completely illegal; not only must Jessie and Paul be forced to relocate, but they will also be forced to sever all ties with friends and family in order to ensure the secret remains so. Within the space of a day, the Duncans consider the legal and ethical implications of such a procedure, ultimately deciding that their love for Adam is enough to trump the law and any high-minded philosophical questions. After resettling in an idyllic town near Dr. Wells' clinic, Jessie is impregnated with the late Adam's living cells, while Paul is given a beautiful home and a more than suitable job. Shortly afterward, the new Adam — seemingly identical to the original Adam in every way — is born and lives a life quite similar to his predecessor until the morning of his eighth birthday. A series of night terrors is the first thing to disturb the Duncans' otherwise serene lifestyle. Adam's violent visions eventually mutate to ill temper, and an aura of menace permeates the aura of a boy who had otherwise been sweetness incarnate from the day of his birth. Eventually, Paul discovers that Dr. Wells is not a pediatrician, but a geneticist, and that their playing God may have been a Faustian bargain of epic proportions. Lion's Gate Publishing. DVD. $26.98; VHS.

Featuring Halle Berry, Robert Downey, Jr., Bernard Hill, Penelope Cruz, Charles S. Dutton. A woman is taken on a voyage to the other side of sanity in this moody thriller. Dr. Miranda Grey (Halle Berry) is a clinical psychologist who works alongside her husband, Dr. Doug Grey (Charles S. Dutton), in the mental ward of a top security prison, where Miranda has been devoting much of her attention to a clever but deeply disturbed murderer named Chloe (Penélope Cruz), who shares gruesome tales of torture and violence that may or may not be based in fact. One night, Miranda has a hideous nightmare in which a chance meeting with a strange young girl leads to a terrifying journey into madness. Once she wakes, however, Miranda discovers that the real horror has just begun — Doug has been brutally murdered, and the evidence points to Miranda as the prime suspect. She soon finds herself a patient in the same facility where she once treated others, and finds that her claims of innocence and sanity do little to convince Dr. Pete Graham (Robert Downey Jr.), the psychologist assigned to her case. Grand Illusion. (1938). Foreign Films—France. Classic Films. Drama. War (Feature Films). B&W. 111 mins. (French, Subtitled: English). Video Released May 1992. Erich Von Stroheim. Directed by Jean Renoir. Orson Welles once said, "If I had to save only one film in the world, it would be Grand Illusion." Based on the true story of the escape of French soldiers from a German prison camp during World War I, Jean Renoir's gripping anti-war classic is more than just a war film. It sheds harsh light on the crumbling social & political values of Europe during World War I - symbolized by prisoners of various classes & nationalities held in a German prison camp. Erich von Stroheim is magnificent as the compassionate German general & gentleman in what appears to be the decay of the "gentleman's war.". Public Media, Inc. (Home Vision). VHS. Greatest Sports Thrills. (1989). Sports—Highlights And Matches—Miscellaneous. Color. 30 mins. Let's face it, most of us will never find ourselves parasailing onto a craggy peak in the Alps before snowboarding down its sheer face. Barefoot water skiing probably requires more sole than most water-sports enthusiasts can muster. Of the hardy few who challange the waves, few surfers or windsurfers will tame the gigantic waves off Hawaii. When it comes to bicycles, it's a statistical fact that more people pedal them rather than perform complicated acrobatic tricks on their wheels, frames & handlebars. As for skateboarding, there is another cosmic dimension on competition ramps that just can't be duplicated on surburban sidewalks. Brentwood Home Video. VHS. Guess Who. (2005). Color. 105 mins. CC PG13. Video Released 2005. Directed by Kevin Rodney Sullivan. Featuring Bernie Mac, Zoe Saldana, Ashton Kutcher. A man gets a very big surprise when he meets his prospective son-in-law in this comedy. Percy Jones (Bernie Mac) is the understandably proud father of Theresa (Zoe Saldana), a beautiful and intelligent young woman living in New York City. When Percy learns that his daughter is dating someone and things are getting serious, he decides to do some research, and learns that her beau is a solid businessman. Percy arranges to meet the young man, but is a bit taken aback when he comes face to face with Simon Green (Ashton Kutcher) — Percy and his wife are African-American, and Simon is very, but very Caucasian. When it becomes clear that Simon and Theresa's relationship is likely altar-bound, Percy finds himself suddenly full of misgivings about the young man, especially since Simon tends to get rather clumsy when he's nervous. Sony Pictures Home Entertainment. DVD. $28.95; VHS.

Happy Endings. (2005). Color. 128 mins. CC R. Video Released 2005. Directed by Don Roos. Featuring Tom Arnold, Lisa Kudrow, Laura Dern, Maggie Gyllenhaal, Jason Ritter. Three loosely interrelated stories of dysfunctional relationships are played for edgy laughs in this dark comedy drama from writer and director Don Roos. An unexpected assignation between stepsiblings Mamie and Charley results in Mamie becoming pregnant, with the child being put up for adoption shortly after birth. Twenty years later, Mamie (Lisa Kudrow) is approached by Nicky (Jesse Bradford), an aspiring filmmaker with an abrasive personality who claims to know where her long-lost son is living. However, there's a catch — Nicky wants to shoot the reunion for the student film he's working on, and won't tell her about her child unless she agrees, though her lover, Javier (Bobby Cannavale), attempts to work out a compromise. Meanwhile, Charley (Steve Coogan), now out of the closet, has a longstanding relationship with Gil (David Sutcliffe), and the couple are involved in a legal battle over whether or not Gil's donated sperm produced a baby who has been adopted by a lesbian couple they know (Laura Dern and Sarah Clarke). And finally, Jude (Maggie Gyllenhaal) is a bohemian malcontent who becomes involved with Otis (Jason Ritter), a sexually ambiguous rock musician. Otis has a difficult relationship with his father, Frank (Tom Arnold), but when Jude meets Frank, she likes him fine — in fact, she soon falls in love with him and leaves Otis for his dad. Harold & Kumar Go To White Castle. (2004). Color. 90 mins. CC NR. Theatrical Release. Video Released 2004. Directed by Danny Leiner. Featuring John Cho, Kal Penn, Christopher Meloni, Neil Patrick Harris, Paula Garces. Harold and Kumar Go to White Castle follows the life-changing (and mind-altering) journey of Korean-American investment banker Harold (John Cho) and Indian-American medical-school candidate Kumar (Kal Penn). Both underdogs, Harold and Kumar decide to spend what would have been an otherwise uneventful Friday night satisfying an oddly intense urge for White Castle hamburgers. However, finding a White Castle proves a highly difficult task, and the two friends wind up on an epic road trip of deep thoughts, deeper inhaling, and enough half-baked, politically incorrect philosophizing to outweigh a White Castle value meal. New Line Home Video. DVD. $27.95; VHS. $58.97; VHS. $58.97.

Harry Potter & the Prisoner of Azkaban. (2004). Color. 142 mins. CC PG. (Dubbed: Spanish). Theatrical Release. Video Released 2004. Directed by Alfonso Cuaron. Featuring Daniel Radcliffe, Gary Oldman, Emma Watson, Rupert Grint. Prisoner of Azkaban also marks the introduction of Sirius Black (Gary Oldman), who has escaped from the title prison after 12 years of incarceration. Believed to have been the right-hand-man of the dark wizard Voldemort, whom Harry (Daniel Radcliffe) mysteriously rendered powerless during his infancy, some of those closest to Harry suspect Black has returned to exact revenge on the boy who defeated his master. Upon his return to school, however, Harry is relatively unconcerned with Black. Run by Albus Dumbledore (Michael Gambon) — who is widely regarded as the most powerful wizard of the age — Hogwarts is renowned for its safety. Harry's nonchalance eventually turns to blind rage after accidentally learning the first of Black's many secrets during a field trip to a neighboring village. Of course, a loose serial killer is only one of the problems plaguing the bespectacled wizard's third year back at school — the soul-sucking guards of Azkaban prison have been employed at Hogwarts to protect the students, but their mere presence sends Harry into crippling fainting spells. With the help of his friends Ron (Rupert Grint) and Hermione (Emma Watson), and Defense Against the Dark Arts professor Remus Lupin (David Thewlis), Harry struggles to thwart the Dementors, find Sirius Black, and uncover the mysteries of the night that left him orphaned. Warner Home Video, Inc. DVD. $29.95; VHS. $22.99; VHS. $22.99.

Robert Coleby, Barbara Stephens, Scott Bartle, Joan Sydney. Directed by Mark Callan. An Australian family fight to keep one of their foster children. The Bailey family is poor but happy. George Bailey is an inventor who has yet to sell any of his creations. But he keeps his family together with love & a vivid imagination. He & his wife, Irene, have three children of their own & three foster children. Trouble arises when a greedy land developer threatens to confiscate the Bailey home if they don't pay $4,000 in back taxes. As an additional threat, he reports to the local welfare counselor that the foster children are not being properly cared for - especially six-year-old Hector who is physically challenged. The welfare counselor, Mrs. Tremball, orders Hector removed to an orphanage. However, the Baileys rally around the young boy, hiding him in a cave & claiming that Hector was taken by "Bunyip" - a large, scaly creature who lives in swamps & who is, in actuality, a friendly product of Hector's imagination. Hellboy. (2004). Color. 125 mins. CC PG13. (Dubbed: French. Subtitled: French). Video Released 2004. Directed by Guillermo del Toro. Featuring Ron Perlman, Rupert Evans, Selma Blair, John Hurt. Mike Mignola's acclaimed comic book series about a creature from Hades who joins the battle against evil arrives on the screen in vivid form in this adaptation directed by distinctive horror filmmaker Guillermo del Toro. During World War II, the Third Reich has joined forces with the evil Grigori Rasputin (Karel Roden), who has used his occult powers to summon up a young demon from the depth of Hell to be used as the ultimate Axis weapon. However, the demonic creature is captured by American forces, and put in the care of Professor Broom (John Hurt), the founder of a top-secret organization called the Bureau for Paranormal Research and Defense. Under Broom's tutelage, the creature develops empathy and a desire to do good while his physical powers and paranormal talents are honed to a fine point. Sixty years later, the demon, now known as Hellboy (Ron Perlman), is part of an elite secret defense team alongside Liz Sherman (Selma Blair), a beautiful young woman who can create fire with her mind, and Abe Sapian (Doug Jones), an aquatic humanoid with the power of telepathy. Despite his many years of fighting for right, Hellboy finds himself facing his greatest challenge when the powerful Rasputin returns, determined to bring the demon back to the forces of darkness so that evil may finally rule the world. Hero. (2002). Color. 99 mins. CC PG13. (Dubbed: French). Video Released 2002. Directed by Zhang Yimou. Featuring Jet Li, Tony Leung Chiu Wai, Maggie Cheung. Hero is two-time Academy Award nominee Zhang Yimou's directorial attempt at exploring the concept of a Chinese hero. During the peak of their Warring States period, China was divided into seven kingdoms all fighting for supremacy. Most determined to dominate China was the kingdom of Qin, whose king (Chen Daoming) was wholly obsessed with becoming the first emperor of China. Though he was an assassination target for many, none of his would-be killers inspired as much fear as the legendary assassins Broken Sword (Tony Leung), Flying Snow (Maggie Cheung), and Sky (Donnie Yen). In hopes of thwarting his death, the king has promised endless wealth and power to anyone who defeats his would-be murderers. No results come until ten years later, when a man called Nameless (Jet Li) brings the weapons of the three assassins to the Qin king's palace. Nameless claims to be an expert swordsman who had defeated Sky and destroyed the famed duo of Flying Snow and Broken Sword by using their love for one another against them. Once Nameless comes face to face with the king, however, it looks as if the situation is more complicated than he had thought. Buena Vista Home Video. DVD. $29.99; VHS. $24.99.

Hexed. (1993). Comedy. Color. 93 mins. CC R. Video Released Jun. 1993. Arye Gross, Claudia Christian. Directed by Alan Spencer. Stars Gross as Matthew, a not-so-happening young guy who has been a hotel clerk for the past 12 years, a fact that does not thrill him. Unfortunately he's also a pathological liar. To keep himself from going completely bonkers with depression, he spends most of his time pretending to be someone else, a practice he considers harmless & necessary fun. But then Matthew learns that Hexina - the world's hottest international model & the object of his greatest fixation - will be staying at the very same hotel in which he works. And before he knows it he's already bragged to his co-workers that he knows her. Upon her arrival, Matthew tricks Hexina into believing that he is the man with whom she has scheduled a meeting. But this time it may be Matthew who is tricked. Because unbeknownst to Matthew, the guy he is now impersonating has been blackmailing our beautiful Hexina with photos that she does not want made public. Sony Pictures Home Entertainment. Laser.
